CANTON FROM HAIP

Agassiz was read at the meeting of the Rd on the 23rd February. Sir M. E. Grant Duff paper was read by the Rev. J. Agassiz, father of the writer. In the course of his remarks Mr Agassiz stated :-

At eleven am, on Feb. 17 I left Haiphong for Phu lang thuong, on board the s.s. Licorne, which steamer, the property of Messrs Marty and d'Abadie, runs regularly on this route, performing the journey three times each way every wook, From Phulang-thuong to Langson a distance of nearly 80-miles, there is a fairly good road, which has been constructed at great cost by the French Government.

A description of the country between P lang-thuong and Langson may be briefly given as follows i-First stage, to Kep : country perfactly flat and well cultivated. Second stage, to Bad-le: billy, with numerous groves of bamboo and tropical trees. Third stage, to Thonmoi: very hilly, some of the hills being well timbered. Last stage: Cross mountain range, passing Thien-he, situated at the highest point reached by the road, which is probably not loss than 3,000 feet above the sea level. Langson stands in the centre of a small plain at the foot of theso mountains; the French portion of the town and the citadel on the left bank of the Sung-chiriver, and the native town on the right bank. The trade of Langson is small. Two French storekeepers do all the business that is to be done with the garrison, while the native trade is carried on in an open market. After remaining in Lung-chow for a fortnight started by boat for Canton on March 11. Below Lung-chow the river is called the Tsochiang, or Left river; and is formed by the junction of the Sung-chi-chiang and Kao-ping. ho, none of which rivers are marked on any of the English maps of China that I have seen. On the 18th, four days after passing Tai-ping, near Macao, the river is called the Hsi-chiang, or West river. The Yürchiang, navigable up to the town of Pe-se, has long been one of the bighways to the prevince of Yun-uan; but during the past year the opening of the Red River in Tong King has taken away much of its trade. Nan-ning, the most important town in Western Kuang-Hsi, is favourably situated the two rivers. It is a large town; in fact, in point of population, it stands third on the list of the towns of this province. The trade carried on between this place and Canton is very large; but, owing to the number Customs or Lekin stations along the water. All light articles, of merchandise cap-from there are carried to Nan-ning by coolies. German steamers, which are fast increasing in immbers all along the China coast, have monepolised this run entirely. It is, therefore, evident that although the opening of Pakhoi as a kow Bund. Promise remains promise however treaty port has benefited British manufacturers,

On the 30th, after some exciting work in passing rapids, I arrived at the junetion of the Hung-shui-chiang and the Hsi, chiang, where is situated the town of Hsunchow. With Hsun-chow a traveller is likely to be disappointed, as its position induces one to expect to find a place of considerable comof mercial importance; which it is not. The city, currounded by a wall, probably contains about 40,000 inhabitants. Below Hsun-chow the river is a splendid expanse of water, which might be rendered navigable to steamers by a slight expenditure of engineering skill. In two days, after leaving Haun-chow, I reached Wuchow, the commercial capital of the Province. This place is Canton on a reduced scale. Below Wu-chew, which place I left after a stay of only one day, the country is hilly; and the river deep, to the Shao-hing gorges, through which it. passes, with hills rising on either side to a height of 700 or 800 feet. A short distance below the gorges the waters of the Hsichiang are augmented by the Poi-chiang, or North River: which is a very considerable stream, rising in the mountainous country on A the borders of the Kuang-Tung and Kiang-Si provinces. Below this junction the Hsi-chiang begins to split up, and finds its way to the sea through many mouths. With my arrival at Canton my journey ended; fifty days after loaving Hai-Phong. I have twice traversed the whole length of the West River, the journey here described being my second, yet I would hardly like to say to what point I think this river is fit, or may be rendered fit, for the pur-

NOW ON SALE. (MPERIAL QUARTO. INGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY WITH THE PUSTI AND MANDARIN

- PRONUNCIATION. An Angle-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service his Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :— Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilstthis work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect C O. Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

It comprises upwards of two thousand large 4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20. A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasors of SIX or more Copies.
